

Kelly Mansfield has over 25 years' experience as a federal public servant and a private dental health professional. Kelly began her career providing clinical dental services in various private clinics within Ottawa in addition to delivering theoretical and practical dental services training as an instructor with Career Canada College. Since becoming a public servant with Health Canada in 1999, Kelly has held several positions in the health portfolio ranging from the national management of First Nations and Inuit Health dental benefits policy and program delivery development to supporting epidemiological initiatives aimed at implementing national oral health strategies, policies, and standards. In addition to her clinic and federal policy experience, Kelly has been a director with the Ontario Dental

Assistant Association board since 2014. Kelly recently completed a BA with a major in sociology from Carleton University.

Kelly has been a CAPE union Steward and member of the Health Canada Local 512 Executive since 2016. My desire to be an Executive Director with CAPE is to assist in the development and delivery of association policies and guidelines aimed at improving the lives and working experiences of our membership. For me, this involves being an advocate for our members and working to maintain an open and transparent governance structure.
